

April 28, 2009

To whom it may concern:

This letter will reference Judy Arnall, parenting speaker, trainer and author, with Professional Parenting Canada. We had the pleasure of securing Judy as a session presenter for our annual School Councils Conference. Held at the Mayfield Inn & Suites in Edmonton on April 24 – 26, 2009, our conference featured technology information for parents in education and Judy presented a session titled “Parenting Children and Media” for our delegates.

As the provincial organization representing parents on school councils in Alberta, we work with school boards, superintendents, and teachers to present the parent voice to the government and other provincial organizations in public education.

Close to 300 delegates attended the conference, with the “Parenting Children and Media” session so popular, we had to move it to a larger room. Delegates were thrilled with the information offered, caliber of the presentation and quality of delivery.

I wouldn't hesitate to recommend Judy as a “parenting expert”, well suited to deliver presentations on a variety of topics that appeal to parents. We very much appreciated her participation contributing to the success of our event!

Yours truly,
